About Us

20Twenty Financial Solutions specialises in home loan financing and provides an innovative inflation-linked home loan option, which is ESG focused. This cost-effective solution increases housing accessibility for a broader segment of the Namibian population. The home loan is available to employees of participating employers via a salary deduction.

Executive Summary

An investor interested in participating, can find 20Twenty as a listed debt instrument on the Namibian Stock Exchange (NSX). Our amortising notes aim to achieve a long-term annual return of Namibian CPI+2%. These notes provide investors with reliable, predictable monthly cash returns.

Summary of home loan product

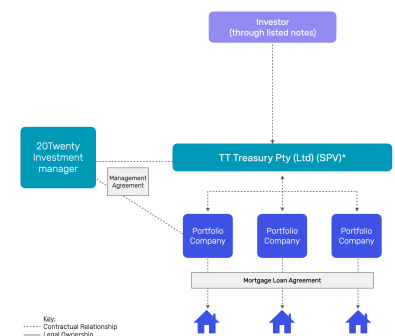

The mortgage product offered by 20Twenty is an innovation in the Namibian home loan market which reduce the cost of owning a house, in terms of interest paid, to enable more Namibians to be homeowners and to live debt-free.

- The 20Twenty product offers more flexibility than a traditional home loan and protect the homeowner's disposable income against unpredictable interest rate movements and thereby reduce default risk.
- The loan offered is a variable-term, fixed affordability loan with the initial instalment set at a specific affordability level for the individual between 20% - 25% of gross income.
- The instalment increases annually by the same percentage increase as the individual's annual salary increase, which is typically in line with inflation. The instalment does not change when interest rates change.
- A 12-month average CPI rate that adjusts bi-annually forms the basis for both the investor and the homeowner.
- The rate is linked to inflation, therefore, when the salary increase is below inflation in a year, it results in a slight increase in the term of the loan and likewise if the increase is above inflation, the term reduces.
- The offering focus on people whose employer offers a salary deduction option for 20Twenty to administer salary increases.
